

You Won't Win Any Popularity Contest Voting For The Foreign Worker Bill. And Americans Could Lose A lot.

Once in a while a bill comes along that makes no sense. The foreign worker bill to admit thousands more H-1B workers is a good example. Every poll to date shows the majority of Americans oppose bringing in more H-1B workers. No government agency has found any credible evidence of a worker shortage. And efforts to eliminate fraud from the program are being watered down, and may be discarded entirely. In fact, the foreign worker bill only makes sense for one group: high-tech corporations. It makes you wonder why the bill is even being considered. And it makes millions of Americans wonder why you would ever consider voting for it.
